

Coming for Group Session

Social Story

When you arrive, you take your shoes off and leave them on the shoe mat located just outside the door of the waiting room. We don't want to track all the salt, dirt, water, snow, etc. into the clinic where we will be in our dry socks!

The waiting room may be busy because there are a lot of friends that come for groups.

The therapists will come to get you and others when it is time to start. Before the start of the group, you all will go wash your hands at a sink.

When you come here to play, your therapist will have some fun activities for you to do. You will be with one or more therapists for about an hour for group time!

You, peers, and your therapists will work together to see which activities work best for the group. The group usually starts with an opening circle to hear about the group plan. The group plan may start with a movement activity to get started.

After movement is all done,
you will start the next group
activity.

After group activities are all finished, it will be time to go.

Everyone will put their belongings on (shoes, jacket, hat, or any other item within the space brought). You will wait until the therapists tell you when it is okay to go into the waiting room.

Can you spot the scarf?

In the waiting room, you and the therapist will tell your grown up all the fun activities you did during group. Then it will be time to leave the clinic until next session!
